April 25, 2010

Lincoln, Neb.—Lien search company Ground Clearance, LLC is now an associate member of the Independent Equipment Dealers Association (IEDA), an international trade association dedicated to issues affecting independent equipment dealers.

The IEDA has also chosen Ground Clearance, which offers discounts to IEDA members, as its exclusive lien search company and has listed Ground Clearance in its member benefits.

“The IEDA and Ground Clearance share the same ideals,” said Sue McKee, owner of Ground Clearance. “We both believe in independently owned and operated equipment dealers, we both recognize the value of free enterprise and we both have strong ethical standards. These are challenging times for the equipment industry, and it is an honor to partner with the IEDA, an organization that works hard for its members.”

Ground Clearance, LLC offers the benefit of nearly a decade of lien search and creditor communication experience to buyers, lenders, auction houses and others who hold interests in industrial and agricultural equipment. Established to assist both companies and individuals with lien search needs, Ground Clearance is focused on helping the industry do a better job of identifying debt when purchasing used equipment. The Independent Equipment Dealers Association (IEDA) was established in 2002 to provide the resources needed to promote participation, professionalism and advancement in the independent distribution of heavy equipment. The international trade association is dedicated exclusively to issues affecting independent equipment dealers and promotes free enterprise and entrepreneurialism through the advocacy of the independent equipment dealer as the distribution method of choice.
